

Doctrine, Policy, and Planning Services

Vistra's skills in doctrine, policy, and planning development enable our federal government clients to meet their strategic national security interests.

Our subject matter experts extensively analyze regulatory and statutory impacts on military operations, developing compliant doctrine and policy options, as well as actionable mission plans at the strategic, operational, and tactical levels.

Vistra provides direct input on multiple national policy documents and our military experts are adept at interpretation and communication of mission-driven strategic and operational issues.

Our work in this area routinely involves Joint, Interagency, Inter-governmental, and Multi-national (JIIM) cross-functional collaboration with senior uniformed leaders of our U.S. Military Service branches, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Office of the Secretary of Defense, and domestic and international partners.

Vistra's professional expertise includes the following key disciplines:

- Strategic Operations Planning
- Global Force Management Planning
- Cyber Operations Planning
- Crisis Action Planning
- Continuity of Operations Planning
- Training and Exercise Planning
